

A few weeks ago my colleagues and I sent a letter to the director of OMB questioning a costly federal train whistle regulation. The Federal Railroad Administration has now withdrawn the rule from OMB consideration. Federally-mandated noise pollution is wrong. Mandatory train whistles are unnecessary at intersections with perfect safety records. This fight is not over and I will continue working to protect local communities.